

Name _____

Date: _____

Teacher: _____

US GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS #10 CONGRESSIONAL DECISIONS

Directions: While watching the video, fill in the blanks.

interest	disciplined	president	divided	congress
committee	parties	logrolling	voters	polling

- ☐ 1. If a congress person ignores what the _____ in his or her district want they're probably not going to be in office for very long.
- ☐ 2. The more sophisticated _____ is, the better representatives are at crafting their message, and maybe even their votes to what their constituents want.
- ☐ 3. The main thing that _____ groups provide to congressmen is information that they can use in writing a bill or making a policy case to their constituents.
- ☐ 4. Interest groups are most influential at the _____ stage of legislation, rather than when congressman are casting floor votes and their influence tends to be mostly negative.
- ☐ 5. A _____ party leadership can put pressure on a congressmen to vote a certain way.
- ☐ 6. Parties also help to organize _____ which is relatively straight forward quid-pro-quo bargaining.
- ☐ 7. The _____ has the most power when his party and the majority part in congress are the same.
- ☐ 8. _____ government, when the president and the congressional majority are in opposite parties works well for congress too because it super easy to set a policy agenda, they just oppose what ever the president wants.
- ☐ 9. Political _____ are most influential over congress when a single party controls both houses and the presidency and when the party leadership is strong enough to exert discipline and a degree of uniformity of policy.
- ☐ 10. It's the structures of _____ and most of all which party has the majority and thus controls the leadership and the committees that makes the most difference.

Name _____

Date: _____

Teacher: _____

US GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS #10 CONGRESSIONAL DECISIONS

Directions: Write one thing you think you know about the topic.

1. _____
_____

Directions: While watching the video, fill in the blanks.

- ☐ 1. If a congress person ignores what the _____ in his or her district want they're probably not going to be in office for very long.
- ☐ 2. The more sophisticated _____ is, the better representatives are at crafting their message, and maybe even their votes to what their constituents want.
- ☐ 3. The main thing that _____ groups provide to congressmen is information that they can use in writing a bill or making a policy case to their constituents.
- ☐ 4. Interest groups are most influential at the _____ stage of legislation, rather than when congressman are casting floor votes and their influence tends to be mostly negative.
- ☐ 5. A _____ party leadership can put pressure on a congressmen to vote a certain way.
- ☐ 6. Parties also help to organize _____ which is relatively straight forward quid-pro-quo bargaining.
- ☐ 7. The _____ has the most power when his party and the majority part in congress are the same.
- ☐ 8. _____ government, when the president and the congressional majority are in opposite parties works well for congress too because it super easy to set a policy agenda, they just oppose what ever the president wants.
- ☐ 9. Political _____ are most influential over congress when a single party controls both houses and the presidency and when the party leadership is strong enough to exert discipline and a degree of uniformity of policy.
- ☐ 10. It's the structures of _____ and most of all which party has the majority and thus controls the leadership and the committees that makes the most difference.

Name _____

Date _____

Teacher: _____

Answer Key

US GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS #10 CONGRESSIONAL DECISIONS

Directions: While watching the video, fill in the blanks.

interest	disciplined	president	divided	congress
committee	parties	logrolling	voters	polling

- ☐ 1. If a congress person ignores what the voters in his or her district want they're probably not going to be in office for very long.
- ☐ 2. The more sophisticated polling is, the better representatives are at crafting their message, and maybe even their votes to what their constituents want.
- ☐ 3. The main thing that interest groups provide to congressmen is information that they can use in writing a bill or making a policy case to their constituents.
- ☐ 4. Interest groups are most influential at the committee stage of legislation, rather than when congressman are casting floor votes and their influence tends to be mostly negative.
- ☐ 5. A disciplined party leadership can put pressure on a congressmen to vote a certain way.
- ☐ 6. Parties also help to organize logrolling which is relatively straight forward quid-pro-quo bargaining.
- ☐ 7. The President has the most power when his party and the majority part in congress are the same.
- ☐ 8. Divided government, when the president and the congressional majority are in opposite parties works well for congress too because it super easy to set a policy agenda, they just oppose what ever the president wants.
- ☐ 9. Political parties are most influential over congress when a single party controls both houses and the presidency and when the party leadership is strong enough to exert discipline and a degree of uniformity of policy.
- ☐ 10. It's the structures of Congress and most of all which party has the majority and thus controls the leadership and the committees that makes the most difference