

Name _____

Date: _____

Teacher: _____

US HISTORY #32-THE ROARING 20'S

Directions: While watching the video, fill in the blanks.

writers	republican	renaissance	film	immigration
government	tolerance	cultural	economy	credit

- 1. So there's a stereotypical view of the 1920s as the Roaring Twenties, a decade of exciting change and new _____ touchstones, as well as increased personal freedom and dancing.
- 2. The _____ Party dominated politics in the 1920s.
- 3. The 1920s were also marked by quite a bit of _____ corruption, most of which can be pinned to the administration of Warren G. Harding.
- 4. The _____ also grew because American corporations were extending their reach overseas.
- 5. By 1925, the American _____ industry had eclipsed all of its competitors and become the greatest in the world.
- 6. The widespread use of _____ and layaway buying plans meant that it was acceptable to go into debt to maintain what came to be seen as the American "standard of living."
- 7. This was the age of the "Lost Generation" of American _____, many of whom lived and worked in Europe but America had its own version of Paris in New York.
- 8. This was part of the spirit of the Harlem _____, which rejected stereotypes and prejudice and sought to celebrate African-American experience.
- 9. These _____ restrictions were also influenced by fear of radical anarchists and pseudo-scientific ideas about race.
- 10. It was a period when _____ became an important value but at the same time it saw a rise in lynchings.

Name _____

Date: _____

Teacher: _____

US HISTORY #32-THE ROARING 20'S

Directions: Write one thing you think you know about the topic.

1. _____
_____

Directions: While watching the video, fill in the blanks.

- 1. So there's a stereotypical view of the 1920s as the Roaring Twenties, a decade of exciting change and new _____ touchstones, as well as increased personal freedom and dancing.
- 2. The _____ Party dominated politics in the 1920s.
- 3. The 1920s were also marked by quite a bit of _____ corruption, most of which can be pinned to the administration of Warren G. Harding.
- 4. The _____ also grew because American corporations were extending their reach overseas.
- 5. By 1925, the American _____ industry had eclipsed all of its competitors and become the greatest in the world.
- 6. The widespread use of _____ and layaway buying plans meant that it was acceptable to go into debt to maintain what came to be seen as the American "standard of living."
- 7. This was the age of the "Lost Generation" of American _____, many of whom lived and worked in Europe but America had its own version of Paris in New York.
- 8. This was part of the spirit of the Harlem _____, which rejected stereotypes and prejudice and sought to celebrate African-American experience.
- 9. These _____ restrictions were also influenced by fear of radical anarchists and pseudo-scientific ideas about race.
- 10. It was a period when _____ became an important value but at the same time it saw a rise in lynchings.

Name _____

Date _____

Teacher: _____

Answer Key

US HISTORY #32-THE ROARING 20'S

Directions: While watching the video, fill in the blanks.

writers	republican	renaissance	film	immigration
government	tolerance	cultural	economy	credit

- 1. So there's a stereotypical view of the 1920s as the Roaring Twenties, a decade of exciting change and new cultural touchstones, as well as increased personal freedom and dancing.
- 2. The Republican Party dominated politics in the 1920s.
- 3. The 1920s were also marked by quite a bit of government corruption, most of which can be pinned to the administration of Warren G. Harding.
- 4. The economy also grew because American corporations were extending their reach overseas.
- 5. By 1925, the American film industry had eclipsed all of its competitors and become the greatest in the world.
- 6. The widespread use of credit and layaway buying plans meant that it was acceptable to go into debt to maintain what came to be seen as the American "standard of living."
- 7. This was the age of the "Lost Generation" of American writers, many of whom lived and worked in Europe but America had its own version of Paris in New York.
- 8. This was part of the spirit of the Harlem Renaissance, which rejected stereotypes and prejudice and sought to celebrate African-American experience.
- 9. These immigration restrictions were also influenced by fear of radical anarchists and pseudo-scientific ideas about race.
- 10. It was a period when tolerance became an important value but at the same time it saw a rise in lynchings.